

Regulatory Legal Services Scheme

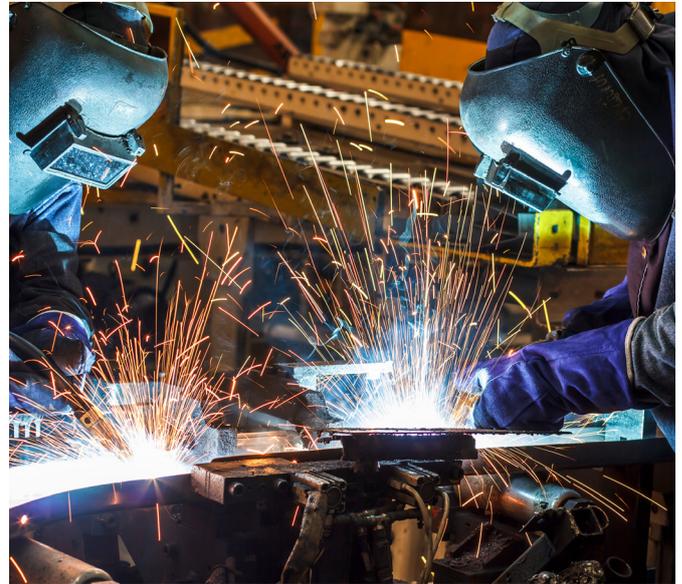

When you find yourself in a crisis or need investigatory advice on regulatory issues (including environmental and chemicals law, health and safety, product liability or antibribery and corruption), an experienced lawyer is available to you 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Regulatory issues can have a huge impact on the fortunes of your business. Why? Because regulations have become more complex, regulators more focussed and the consequences of breaches more severe.

Criminal investigations and prosecutions brought under environmental, health and safety and product liability legislation now attract substantial (and in many cases, unlimited) fines, with an increasing number of custodial sentences being imposed on directors, employers and employees. Apart from the criminal consequences, a prosecution may also have far-reaching commercial effects on your business.

We have selected Squire Patton Boggs as our recommended provider of legal expertise.

Squire Patton Boggs has a fully integrated team committed to providing you with the best possible service. Whether you find yourself in a crisis or need advice, an experienced lawyer is available to you 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Environmental incident, accident or regulatory investigation?

Squire Patton Boggs has a 24/7 Incident Support Hotline. For more information, contact ESH@squirepb.com

Squire Patton Boggs Expertise

Expert Advice: You will have access to some of the best known experts in the field across the country through our preferred supplier. The firm's experts have valuable insight into the problems being faced by businesses in the manufacturing and industrial sectors. Their team includes specialists with higher rights of audience in the Crown Court and experience in prosecution of a duty holder on behalf of a utility company.

Know-How: To keep you up-to-date on regulatory law and practice, the Legal Services Scheme will provide you with legal updates and other information on environmental, health and safety, food safety and licensing topics.

"Squire Patton Boggs excels at providing comprehensive, sound advice in relation to workplace manslaughter, HSE, Environment Agency, local authority and trading standards prosecutions." The Legal 500 2015

Your Service Offer From Squire Patton Boggs

Regulatory and Civil Disputes

- Advice on all aspects of criminal investigations, interviews under caution and prosecutions relating to health and safety at work, environmental pollution, waste management and disposal, packaging waste and CLP requirements, WEEE, public health, statutory nuisances (including noise, vapour, dust and odour), breach of consents, licences, permits and authorisations and product liability and labelling).
- Chemicals legislation compliance.
- Civil litigation in connection with environmental pollution, contaminated land, waste management and disposal, workplace accidents and fatalities, chemical spills, claims for damages and injunctions.
- Advice on civil and criminal liability of directors, company officers and other employees.
- Advice on corporate manslaughter and advice and representation at coroners' inquests and fatal accident inquiries.
- Advice on product recall and/or withdrawal from the market.
- Applications, appeals and judicial reviews relating to all environmental permits.
- Advice on professional liability issues.
- Negotiating the terms of prohibition, improvement, abatement and enforcement notices with regulators.

Exclusive Benefits for SEA Members

- "First hour free" legal advice to assess prospects of success/strategy going forward.
- Competitive and preferential discounted rates. Squire Patton Boggs will also consider fixed or capped fees or an increased discount for guaranteed volume of work.
- Free legal updates on regulatory topics.
- Access to conferencing and library facilities.

Although the service being offered is principally regulatory in nature, Squire Patton Boggs is able to deal with personal injury work that SEA members may require, subject to rates being acceptable to members and/or their insurers.

24/7 Incident Response

At the time of an incident, it is difficult to remain objective and in control. If there has been a fatality, the police will be the first investigators on-site and will often treat the incident as a murder scene. Other regulators can also be very demanding at this difficult time and it is easy to say and do things that (with hindsight) were not in the best interests of either the company or individuals. Personal liability, escalating fines, disqualification and custodial sentences attaching to individuals are also very real risks with these types of regulatory offences.

If you find yourself managing an environmental incident, accident or regulatory investigation and need assistance, the scheme will provide access to an experienced lawyer available for immediate, practical advice 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Should an environmental incident, accident or regulatory investigation occur, please contact Squire Patton Boggs at ESH@squirepb.com. You will be put in touch with an experienced lawyer who will be able to provide you with essential short-term support and assistance to ensure that your incident is managed correctly from the outset.

Contacts

Rob Elvin

Partner, Manchester
T +44 161 830 5257
E rob.elvin@squirepb.com

Dave Gordon

Partner, Birmingham
T +44 121 222 3204
E dave.gordon@squirepb.com